“With yacht design, it’s about details, you can use burl wood in a shade of taupe for a sophisticated feel or zebrawood for a more bold look.”

The 120-foot Nordhavn is the latest concept to emerge from the studio of Destry Darr Designs. Merging classic and modern elements, the Fort Lauderdale yacht design firm created a dynamic vessel with a theme of understated sophistication. The featured conceptual rendering presents the ship’s main salon, which is host to an elegant combination of American cherrywood joinery accented by walnut and burl-trimmed furnishings. destrydarrdesigns.com

Upon orchestrating the interiors of the Lady Nora, a 142-foot tri-deck sailing vessel, Hollywood-based designer Patricia Baldwin elected to implement a transitional interior aesthetic with clean lines, neutral tones, textured Maya Romanoff wallcoverings and plush fabrics from Armani/Casa. This refined simplicity endures on the deck, shown, which Baldwin outfitted with woven lounge chairs and a sleek coffee table from David Sutherland. baldwinyachtinteriors.com

MYTHICAL BEAUTY >

Inspired by the graceful silhouette of a mythical sea creature, Kenneth Cobonpue’s Mermaid chaise features fluid contours and an adjustable reclining back. Envisioned by German designers Hertel & Klarhoefer this ultra-chic lounger is a highlight of Cobonpue’s latest collection, host to a unique assemblage of stylish outdoor furnishings and accents. kennethcobonpue.com
